A FIVE FRANC PIECE.

ONE THAT IS THE HOPE OF EVERY CREDULOUS FRENCHMAN.

The Story of Napoleon's Famous Coin and the Immense Fortune That Is Popularly Believed to Be Concealed Within It.

If you happen to have in your possession the particular French coin known as a 5 franc piece, you may unwittingly be a millionaire.

Such, at least, is the belief shared by hundreds upon thousands of credulous Frenchmen and Frenchwomen, many of whom spend most of their spare time destroying quantities of 5 franc pieces in the hope of realizing a fortune.

Dr. Marco-Leonardo Nardez, the well known numismatist and one of the recognized authorities on coin lore, speaking of this curious condition of affairs, said:

"It is quite true that half France still believes in the existence of great wealth hidden in a 5 franc piece, although many numismatists hold that the fortune in question was long ago discovered and appropriated by one of the Rothschild family.

"The story of the strange 5 franc fortune legend may be briefly told. A 5 franc piece, to begin with, is a silver coin, and is worth about 4s. 2d. Napoleon I was very anxious to make the coin a popular one, and with this end in view he caused it to be circulated everywhere throughout France that he had inserted in one of the silver pieces before it left the mint a bank note or order for 1,000,000 of these same 5 francs—roughly, about £200,000 Whether he really did this or not I cannot say for certain, but the weight of evidence would seem to show that it was done.

"In the manuscript memoirs of the Duc de Feltie, Napoleon's minister of war, it is expressly stated that the emperor inclosed a note on the Bank of France, duly signed by the governors of that institution, in a split 5 franc piece; that the halves were then welded together, partially reminted and thrown in a heap of similar coins, which the emperor mixed with his own hands. These coins Napoleon took with him in a bag when he went to Boulogne and distributed lavishly en route, even dropping some of them out of his carriage windows. In this way it was impossible to keep track of the lucky coin.

"The news of this odd lottery spread far and wide, and the 5 franc piece leaped into immediate favor. From that day to this mutilation of the coin has been common in France, Switzerland, Belgium and elsewhere. Every year the Bank of France is requested to make good scores of pieces split in a vain search for the 5,000,000 franc bank note.

"There are many stories dealing with reputed finds of the fortune. Indeed when a man becomes suddenly rich in France it is common to hear people whisper, 'He must have found Napoleon's famous coin.'

"Some assert that the emperor kept the coin himself, but this hardly agrees with Napoleon's character. Still it is a current theory that some of the money which enabled Napoleon III to reach the imperial throne was found in the lucky silver piece, which his mother, Queen Hortense, had wheedled out of her brother-in-law.

"It was also common talk that General Boulanger had acquired the famous coin until the discovery that his money supplies came from the Duchess d'Uzes set that belief at rest.

"The most likely explanation as to why the 5 franc piece fails to turn up is that Baron Ferdinand de Rothschild, a French member of the great Jewish banking house, secured it. This account states that Baron de Rothschild, having investigated the tradition and found sufficient proof of its truth, deliberately set to work to locate the note.

"He quietly bought in and collected every 5 franc piece he could get, and his agents were notified to preserve and forward to Paris every 5 franc piece which reached them in Europe, Asia, Africa or America. In his office the baron kept three trusty men hard at work bisecting the coins.

"Some say that he had invented a plan for welding them together again, so as to defy detection; others maintain that he melted down the silver and sold it to the government en bloc. The work was colossal, but in the end the baron's sytem is said to have conquered.

"He found the note for 5,000,000 francs, having spent nearly 1,000,000 to obtain it. The order was duly presented at the Bank of France and cashed by that institution.

"Plausible as this narration may seem, the great mass of Frenchmen refuse to credit it, and go on, year after year, splitting open their 5 franc pieces to look for Napoleon's note. It is certainly a tantalizing thought that somewhere in the world a check for £200,000 is knocking about hidden in an ordinary silver coin worth less than 5 shillings."—Pearson's Weekly.

Explained.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer tells a story to show that there is sometimes a great deal in the way of putting anything.

"I understand that you said my eldest daughter was as homely as a mud fence, professor."

"You are quite mistaken, my dear madam. What I said was that your esteemed child reminded me of a mixture of terra firma and aqua pura combined in a practical boundary line."

"Oh! Is that all? Dine with us on Sunday, professor."

In the eighteenth century begging was a frightful nuisance in the German states. In Bavaria whole regiments had to be sent out to arrest and punish the professional beggars, and Cologne, with a population of only 40,000, had nearly 10,000 paupers.

DEATH ABOARD SHIP.

HOW BURIALS AT SEA FROM OCEAN LINERS ARE MANAGED.

Little Ceremony and Hasty Funerals the Rule When Sailors or Steerage Passengers Are the Victims—Efforts to Cheat the Sharks.

There is no place where death is more unwelcome than on board a passenger steamer, and between the death and burial of a sea traveler the melancholy influence of the event extends to every one on board. The limitations of space are very likely responsible in part for this, for there is the feeling that until the body has been cast into the arms of the sea there is no getting away from it. So spake a man who has crossed the Atlantic ocean many times and who on more than one occasion had been a passenger on one of the big liners when death had claimed a victim from among those on board.

Sailors dread a death on board their vessel as much as anything, and when one occurs they are all anxiety to render the body the last service, and this fact is often responsible for the haste and scant consideration with which burials at sea are too often conducted. But the days of such ceremonies are fast dying, and efforts are now being made which will permit of the body being carried for the remainder of the journey after death and properly buried on land.

Even now it is generally only sailors and steerage passengers who are buried at sea, and frequently these are cast to the waves without so much as the vessel being slowed down and within an hour or two of their death.

Often enough a death occurs in a vessel without the fact becoming known to more than one or two of the crew or steerage passengers. Every effort is made to keep the event secret, and in the stillness of night, when better class passengers are comfortably curled up in their bunks, a little band of men, moving like shadows across the deck, bear a body from below, and, while the vessel is plowing the sea, the mortal remains wrapped in canvas or inclosed in a crudely made box, are quietly slipped over the ship's side into the mysterious deep.

The presence of a dead body on board has sometimes not even been suspected by the passengers until some one has noticed the sharks that are following, for it is no mere sailor's story that sharks know when a ship contains a corpse. A vessel carrying a dead body and passing through waters frequented by sharks is almost sure to be followed by one or more of those fishes, if it does not outspeed them.

Rather than bury a corpse while sharks are following a vessel the captain will sometimes have the body placed in the ice chamber and full steam put on the engines until the hungry fishes have dropped astern completely.

In one case at least a body was actually cremated on board by the captain's orders because of the sharks. But sharks are not often obstacles to prompt burial, and, generally speaking, when a death occurs at sea, the body is slipped into the water at night with none to witness the proceeding but a couple of the crew and the captain, who reads an abridgment of the service from the prayer book.

The manner of burial of course depends greatly upon the captain's own feelings in respect to the dead, and it must be acknowledged that these feelings are in some cases all that they should be. Some captains have the greatest objection to "dumping" a dead body into the sea and, when it is unavoidable, will do their uttermost to conduct the ceremony with all possible reverence and respect.

For all that, there is always the feeling of the ship's crew and the melancholy effect of the presence of a corpse to be reckoned with, and the argument that more consideration is due to the living than the dead often prompts a captain to "dump" a steerage passenger in the dead of night without mentioning the event to more than a couple of hands.

Thus it often happens that while a concert or a private theatrical performance is going on in the salcon the captain is engaged making arrangements for the burial of some unfortunate creature.

The "Change of Air" Cure.

"There is no sense," said a New York physician, who has passed the days when he must practice even if he does not wish to, "in the haphazard way in which a patient is sent away from home to exhaust his strength and spend his money in the hope that a change of air will do him good. There is no use in sending a person away to die.

"Many physicians are not at all considerate about this sort of thing. There are some cases in which the influence of climate is a potent factor in the treatment of certain diseases, but not half so many of them as is generally supposed. Quiet and rest at home, plenty of sunshine, good food and pure air are worth far more than a change of climate, that is so often recommended as a cure all."—New York Herald.

Condensed.

"Do you buy condensed milk, madam?"

"I presume that we must, but I never thought of it before. I always order two quarts and pay for two quarts, but it never measures more than three pints."—Detroit Free Press.

A custom peculiar to Buddhists is that of wandering about the country with hammer and chisel and carving holy symbols upon rocks by the wayside.

The term "filthy lucre" originated in Scotland and referred in the first place to the well worn £1 notes of that country.

THE STORE DETECTIVE.

One Occasion Where He Got Decidedly the Worst of It.

The tables were turned upon a woman detective in one of the large department stores recently when a woman whom she had been following from counter to counter turned on her and not only pulled her hair, but tore her gown. To a policeman who was summoned by the detective the shopper said that she was not a thief, and that the detective's espionage was an insult. No arrest was made.

The female detectives are known to the regular patrons of the stores where they are employed, and it is not improbable, when the shopper said that it was an insult to be followed by this woman, that she was thinking what opinion the other shopppers might form of her. One store in this town which obtained a lot of free advertising several years ago because of the energy of its female detective has paid heavily for it since. It was a store which by its arrangement offered great temptation to shoplifters, and undoubtedly it suffered from them. The woman detective was engaged, and as she was the pioneer of her class she attracted so much attention that she became unduly ambitious in her line of work. If a shopper happened to pick up an article and walk to another counter with it, a habit of many women, the detective was right beside her, and she felt that in the eyes of the sleuth she was a probable thief, even if no arrest was attempted.

The annoyance of this woman's actions became so great and the numbers of arrests made by her was so large that the old patrons of the store fell away. They felt that the risk of being mistaken for a shoplifter outweighed the advantage of the bargains offered.—Chicago Chronicle.

You Can Boil Anything.

A successful experiment was made at Columbia university in boiling away a silver dime. The dime was cut in strips and laid in the cup of one of the carbons of the arc light. The pointed carbon of the arc was placed above this and a strong current turned on. Under the intense heat the dime melted, simmered and then boiled like water. In two minutes it had boiled away into vapor. Professor Pupin, who conducted the experiment, declared any substance on earth, even granite rock, may be boiled away in similar fashion if only sufficient heat is brought to bear on it. He also stated that any gas or liquid would freeze if it could be submitted to sufficient cold.

Compliments of a Corpse.

"I spent one summer at an obscure place in the Virginia mountains," said the business woman to me, "and I took with me a maid whose home was somewhere near. One day she came to me and asked for a day's leave. I asked her where she was going, and she very proudly drew from her pocket a sheet of paper on which was written, with a superabundance of flourishes:

"'Miss Selina Jackson respectfully requests the honor of your company at the funeral of Miss Amanda Juliana Jackson, Friday morning at 10 a. m. Compliments of the corpse.'"—Washington Post.

A Sure Test.

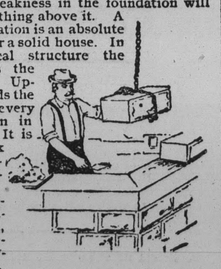
The schoolmaster put to his class the question: "Two jars of gas, one containing nitrogen and one carbon dioxide, are given. How may the gases be discriminated?"

One eager little pupil said: "Get a man, and let him take a deep breath of both. When he gets the carbon dioxide, he'll die. That's the way to tell."

The Pressure Cure.

Dr. Negro of Turin has succeeded in curing 100 out of 113 cases of sciatica by digital pressure over the painful part. The pressure is applied with all possible force for 15 or 20 seconds and is repeated for same length of time after an interval of a few minutes. In many cases six treatments are all that is necessary.

When a builder wants to put up a permanent structure, he looks well to the foundation. He digs deep and lays the stones with exactness and precision. He "trues" and "plumbs" and "levels." A defect or weakness in the foundation will affect everything above it. A solid foundation is an absolute necessity for a solid house. In the physical structure the stomach is the foundation. Upon it depends the support of every other organ in the body. It is the weak and disordered stomach that causes indigestion, impure blood, general debility, nervousness, sleeplessness, and all the woes of dyspepsia. It is the disordered stomach that makes thin, impoverished blood, where microbes of consumption flourish and multiply. It is the weak and disordered stomach which brings about conditions that cause a hacking cough, sore throat, bronchitis, weak and bleeding lungs.



To make the foundation of your physical structure solid; so that the rest of the organs may successfully resist the attacks of disease, nothing equals Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This medicine is a tonic, an appetizer, a blood purifier, a nerve builder, a flesh maker, a foe to weakness and a blessing to worn-out and run-down humanity. It is a non-alcoholic specific for every disease that comes in advance of consumption. It is a distinct remedy and stands alone. Nothing is like it, and there is no substitute for it. It has a record of thirty years of cures.

Mrs. Lula Hedgecoke, of Dozier, Collingsworth Co., Texas, writes: "I was troubled for seven or eight years with indigestion and liver complaint, and received more benefit from the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Pleasant Pellets' than any medicine I have ever tried."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are for constipation, biliousness, and torpid liver. These troubles they cure permanently without causing distress. They are pleasant in fact as well as name—no griping. At all dealers.

SONOMA, JULY 1, 1899.

FOREWARNED is forearmed. Now that the Fourth of July, with its exploding bombs and firecrackers, is near at hand it behooves the people of Sonoma to take every precaution possible to prevent a conflagration in our midst. Sidewalks should be thoroughly wet down, dry grass removed from alongside buildings and the backyards of private dwellings, and ladders kept where they can be found when wanted. In case of fire this town would practically be at the mercy of the flames, as there is not sufficient water available for our people to successfully cope with the fire fiend. We will not discuss the reasons for this state of affairs in this article. Suffice it to say, that they exist and our people ought to be doubly vigilant to prevent a conflagration that would become general in our present state of helplessness.

THE San Francisco Call says that there is little doubt that the California Wine Makers' Corporation will soon be a thing of the past. The reports regarding the reception of the new contracts in the various districts will not be received for several days, but the officials of the institution are convinced that a combination among producers this year is an impossibility. They also state that this fact being established, there will be a compact of capitalists and big producers that will control the industry and maintain prices at not less than 12½ cents per gallon. It is said that the proposed new organization will be in the nature of a trust and that it will probably use the present warehouse and cellars of the Wine Makers' Corporation in which to carry on its business.

GOVERNOR ROOSEVELT of Rough Rider fame has publicly declared that he is not in the Presidential race of 1900, but favors the renomination of McKinley. In an interview with an Associated Press reporter the other day he said: "Everybody in the West is for McKinley's renomination, and I am most emphatically for his renomiation, of course. I feel that both the extreme rapidity with which the country has gone up the path of prosperity under President McKinley's Administration, and the conduct of the war in the Philippines makes it the duty of every man to stand with it, and render President McKinley's renomination a necessity. We must smash out this insurrection there by force of arms, and then we can consider terms of peace." Good boy, Teddy.

THE open season for doves commences July 15th and not on July 1st as many local sportsmen have supposed. The birds are quite plentiful in this valley at present, but many are still nesting. It would be well for nimrods to make a note of this as a hunter was fined $20 the other day in Marin county for killing doves out of season. It is just as easy to obey the law as to break it. Ignorance of our game ordinances is no excuse in a court of law, and it is a safe axiom to "be sure you are right and then go ahead" in the matter of the open and close season for game as well as on all other propositions.

THE appointment of Jos. Ryan as Deputy Sheriff of Sonoma Township meets with general approval among all classes of people and Sheriff Grace has the right man in the right place. Mr. Ryan is a very exemplary and popular young man and will prove a credit to Sheriff Grace's judgment in selecting a deputy down this way.

GEORGE HALL, ex-Superior Court reporter of this county, died in San Francisco last Saturday. His remains were shipped to Santa Rosa for interment, the funeral taking place Sunday under the auspices of the Masonic fraternity.

THE Directors of the Fourth Agricultural District will meet in Petaluma this morning to select a place for holding a Fair this summer.

WILL OF BANKER I. G. WICKERSHAM

Leaves an Estate Worth Over a Million.

Cuts His Son Frank off With $5, and He Will Endeavor to Break the Will.

I. G. Wickersham, the wealthy Petaluma banker, who died last week in that city, left a will made nearly three years ago in his own handwriting. This will was filed for probate last Monday by Lydia C. Wickersham, the widow, Fred. A. Wickersham, a son, and Lizzie Wickersham, a daughter of decedent, the executors named in the will.

Most of the estate, which is worth over a million dollars, is devised to his wife and three of his children. Frank Wickersham, the eldest son, who is a resident of Fresno, is cut off with a legacy of $5 only, and he has already given it out that he will contest the will.

Following is an exact copy of the will, which was executed by the deceased in November, 1896:

In the name of God amen I — I. G. Wickersham of Petaluma do make, publish and declare the following to be my last will and testament, that is to say—

To my beloved wife Lydia C. Wickersham I give, bequeath and devise the residence where we now reside with all household furniture and all horses, carriages, robes, and harness and cows now or at the time of my death used about the homestead to have and to hold the same to her and her heirs.

To St. John's Episcopal church, Petaluma, I give five hundred dollars.

To Katie Bower I give and bequeath five hundred dollars

The remainder of my estate, real and personal, I give, bequeath and devise as follows, to be divided equally between my wife and children—with the following exceptions:

To my son Frank five dollars, as I have already advanced to him about one hundred thousand dollars, which is to be in full of all interest in my estate

To Fred. A. W., less five thousand dollars to be charged to him and deducted.

To May L. Bergwin, less thirteen thousand dollars advanced to her and to be deducted.

Lizzie is not charged with any advance.

It is my wish and desire that my grandchildren should be remembered — and therefore request that there be deposited in the savings department of the California Safe Deposit and Trust Company of San Francisco, Cal., in trust for the benefit of my grandson and namesake, son of my son Frank, the sum of one thousand dollars with the accumulated interest to be paid him upon his arriving at the age of twenty-one years — and five hundred dollars to each of my grandchildren on same conditions. In case of death of any one that part to go equally to the survivors

I hope my executors will make no sacrifice and allow the property to remain intact and divide the income between them.

I nominate and appoint as executors of this my last will and testament, my wife L. C. Wickersham, my son, Fred. G. Wickersham, and Lizzie C. Wickersham, or the survivors of them, without bonds — with full power and authority to grant, bargain, sell and convey all property real and personal or pay dividends without application to any court for authority so to do — the executors shall not charge for commissions for services more than reasonable expenses — hereby revoking all wills previously made, in witness whereof I have hereto set my hand and seal this 12th day of November 1896.

I. G. WICKERSHAM.

A dispatch from Fresno says: Ex-County Supervisor Frank P. Wickersham, Vice-President of the Fresno National Bank, will contest the will of his father, the late I. G. Wickersham of Petaluma, on the grounds that the latter was not sound of mind at the time the will was made. The instrument was filed for probate in Santa Rosa on Monday and under its terms the contestant is cut off with $5.

Referring to the will and his determination to contest it, Mr. Wickersham denies that he has received $100,000 or anything like that amount. He also says that the will was changed within the last few months; that his father was unduly influenced by his (Frank's) brother, Fred. A. Wickersham, who is president of a bank at Petaluma, where the decedent resided. Mr. Wickersham further claims that his father suffered two strokes of paralysis before the will was made and that a person so affected could not be said to be in his right mind.

An American Railroad in China.

Moneyed men from the United States have secured a franchise or building a railroad from Hong Kong to Han Kow, China, a distance of nearly 700 miles. It will run through a very fertile and rich section of country, and open up new opportunities for the people to prosper. While railroads are necessary to a nation's prosperity, health is still more necessary. A sick man can't make money if there are a thousand railroads. One of the reasons why America is so progressive is the fact that in every drug store is sold Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, that celebrated tonic for the weak, stimulant for the kidneys, appetizer for the dyspeptic, purifier for the blood, and sedative for the nerves. It is taken with great success by thousands of men and women, who are run down, pale and weak. It increases the weight of thin people, and the gain is permanent and substantial.

Kemp's Balsam, the standard family remedy, is sold on a guarantee and never fails to give entire satisfaction. Price 25c. and 50c.

A Backward Boy.

President of the Company—I guess you'd better discharge that boy.

Manager—Why? He seems to be a nice, quiet kind of a boy, and I haven't noticed that he has neglected his work.

President—That's all very true, but I don't think he has the making of a financial genius in him. He's been around here for more than three weeks now and hasn't given either you or me to understand that he knows more about the business than we do.—New York World.

FIFTY YEARS OLD

Why let your neighbors know it?

And why give them a chance to guess you are even five or ten years more?

Better give them good reasons for guessing the other way. It is very easy; for nothing tells of age so quickly as gray hair.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

is a youth-renewer.

It hides the age under a luxuriant growth of hair the color of youth.

It never fails to restore color to gray hair. It will stop the hair from coming out also.

It feeds the hair bulbs. Thin hair becomes thick hair, and short hair becomes long hair.

It cleanses the scalp; removes all dandruff, and prevents its formation.

We have a book on the Hair which we will gladly send you.

If you do not obtain all the benefits you expected from the use of the Vigor, write the doctor about it. Probably there is some difficulty with your general system which may be easily removed. Address, Dr. J. C. Ayer, Lowell, Mass.

CHARGED WITH EMBEZZLEMENT.

W. B. Day, the Life Insurance Agent, Under Arrest.

W. B. Day, traveling agent for the Bankers' Life Association, was arrested in Occidental last Monday night by Sheriff Grace and Deputy Sheriff Tombs on an alleged charge of embezzlement. Mr. Day recently visited this place in his capacity of agent and wrote up about $20.000 worth of life insurance for the Bankers' Association. He left here about a month ago in a rig hired for two days from the Union Stables, his objective point being Santa Rosa. Nothing was heard of Day for over a week, when word was received that the horse and buggy were at a livery stable in that city. The rig had been sent to the stable by Day, who sent word that it would be called for by Granville Harris, the owner. Day, it appears, after leaving here went off on a little "toot," and to this may be ascribed his present troubles.

SONOMA INDEX - TRIBUNE.

H. H. GRANICE, Proprietor.

SONOMA, SATURDAY, JULY 1, 1899.

Notice of Business Change.

The old saying that "the unlooked-for always happens" may be true in the present instance. The Sonoma News is no more! Having sold the paper and its good will to Mr. Granice, the business and subscription books pass into his hands. Those who are in arrears for their paper will please pay Mr. Granice and those who have paid in advance will receive the INDEX-TRIBUNE to full extent of their subscriptions.

There are three reasons I might give for making this change. It is well known that I did not buy the News with the intention of running it myself. A person usually sells a commercial commodity when the price asked is accepted. The third reason is the more potent one—our patronizing territory is too limited to properly support two weekly newspapers.

But we do need and must have for the weal of the commonwealth one good, wide-awake paper, which shall be alive to the best interests of our people, and such a paper Mr. Granice will be able to furnish us providing he has the good will and support his paper merits. So we sincerely hope all our subscribers and patrons will lend a hand.

With a thank you to our friends and wishes for the success of the INDEX-TRIBUNE we break our quill.

E. E. THOMPSON.

BOILED IT DOWN

The Sign as It Was Designed and as It Appeared.

A journeyman hatter, a companion of Dr. Franklin, was about to set up in business for himself and wished to have an appropriate sign to put over his door. He designed one that bore the following inscription: "John Thompson, Hatter, Makes and Sells Hats for Ready Money." Following this was a picture of a hat. But he was not quite certain of the suitability of his sign, and he decided to submit it to his friends for their criticism.

The first that he showed it to objected to the word "hatter," because it was followed by the words "makes hats," which sufficiently explained that he was a hatter. The word was struck out.

The next said that the work "makes" was useless, because the customers would not care who made the hats so long as they were satisfactory and the price was not too high. He struck that out also.

The third man said that the words "for ready money" might as well go, as it was not the custom to sell hats on credit; every one who bought expected to pay. These words taken out, and the inscription read, "John Thompson Sells Hats."

His next friend said "sells" might as well come out, because nobody expected him to give them away. What, then, was the use of the word? "Sells" was accordingly struck out and "hats" was all that remained, following "John Thompson."

Even this, short as it was, was further diminished, and the sign finally stood, "John Thompson," with the figure of the hat following it.—Harper's Round Table.

HIS THREE WIVES.

They Were All In One Picture, but Did Not Stay There.

Allan Cunningham, in his "Lives of British Painters," tells a story of Copley, the father of Lord Chancellor Lyndhurst, which reveals what a portrait painter endures from the vanity and eccentricity of his sitters.

A certain man had himself, his wife and seven children painted by Copley in a family piece.

"It wants but one thing," said the man, on seeing the finished picture, "and that is the portrait of my first wife—this one is my second."

"But," replied the artist, "she is dead. What can I do? She must come in as an angel."

"Oh, no; no angels for me. She must come in as a woman."

The portrait was added, but several months elapsed before the man again called at Copley's studio, and when he did, a strange lady held on to his arm.

"I must have another sketch from your hand, Copley," said he. "An accident befell my second wife; this lady is my third, and she has come to have her likeness included in the family picture."

The painter introduced the likeness of wife No. 3, and the man expressed himself satisfied with the portraits of his three spouses. But the lady remonstrated. Never was such a thing heard of. Her predecessors must go. The artist painted them out; then the man disputed the price. Copley sued him, and his son, the future Lord Lyndhurst, signalized his call to the bar by gaining his father's cause.

WE PULLED A ROSE IN SUMMER TIME.

We pulled a rose in summer time
Beside true lover's gate.
Our lips sent up so sweet a chime
That twilight lingered late.

Now look how is the year grown old,
How leafless hedge and tree!
'Tis said that even love grows cold;
So here is rosemary.

—Elizabeth Alden Curtis in Connecticut Magazine.

HEARSE DRIVING.

Men Steadily Employed at It In the Larger Cities.

In smaller cities and in the country the hearse driver may between times drive other vehicles or engage in some other work, but in a city of great population like New York, where, in the natural course of things, many deaths occur daily and where many hearses are used and kept constantly employed, hearse driving is a regular occupation. There are many hearse drivers in the city who have been thus steadily employed for many years. Only careful and skillful drivers are employed in this capacity.

The letting of hearses is a long established custom in this city. Many liverymen own from one to a dozen hearses and let them to sextons and undertakers. Perhaps half of the undertakers of the city do not keep hearses, but hire of the livery owners. So it commonly happens that in answering calls from one source and another the hearses owned by the liverymen are constantly employed. It might be that all the hearses owned in a stable, whatever their number, would be called for day after day and week after week, as regularly as so many carriages or other vehicles might be, and so it comes about that hearse driving is here a steady occupation, just like any other.

While hearses are commonly driven to and from the various cemeteries in and about the city, they are sometimes driven out of the city to various nearby cities and towns. Hearses have been driven to greater distances, but they are not often driven more than 12 or 15 miles away.—New York Sun.

Limits of Heat and Cold.

Extremes of heat and cold can be produced artificially to such intense extents nowadays that it is a physical impossibility to measure them with absolute accuracy. "We cannot measure the infinitesimal," says Charles Whiting Baker, editor of Engineering News. "The best we can do is to make careful estimates. The greatest heat produced artificially is that of an electric arc furnace, the kind that is used in the production of artificial diamonds, calcium carbide, etc. It is so intense that nothing exists with which to record it. It is estimated, however, to be of about 4,000 degrees F.

"The coldest known temperature is that of liquid air, which freezes alcohol and mercury and distances all means of measuring. It is claimed for it that with it a temperature of 400 degrees below zero Fahrenheit is reached. The present limits of heat and cold are therefore represented by the arc furnace and the liquid air."

His New Coat.

They had been chums for so long that when the one gave a chafing dish party to some of his more intimate feminine acquaintances the other made a point of returning early from the theater in order to be present. Chum No. 2 had hardly made his appearance before chum No. 1, in his anxiety to chatter nonsense with the prettiest girl in the room, managed to upset a basin of beaten egg yolks down the front of his new Tuxedo. Chum No. 1 was much distressed apparently, and chum No. 2 hastened to his assistance.

"Go into my room and take mine," he adjured his friend generously. "I've a brand new one; just came home today."

Chum No. 1 smiled queerly. "I know it, old boy," was what he said, grinning in a rather forced fashion. "Fact is—well—my own looked a little shabby this evening and I've got yours on."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Its Meaning.

"Oh, yes," said Miss Flyppe, "Mr. Gayson is a nice enough fellow, but he ought to have his clothes made by a tailor."

"How do you know he doesn't?" asked young Throggins.

"How do I know? I can tell hand me downs on anybody by the way they fit."

"That means," bitterly soliloquized young Throggins as he wended his way homeward an hour later, "that I'll have to pay $85 instead of $15 for my next suit."—Chicago Tribune.

How Coffee Grows.

This is how coffee leaves and berries look at about the time for the harvest; The coffee tree is an evergreen plant, growing 10 or 12 feet high. Its leaves are a dark, shiny green on the upper side and paler underneath. They are five or six inches long and from two to three inches wide. Flowers come in fragrant white clusters and give place to berries which when ready for gathering are a deep red. It takes from four to seven years to bring a plant to bearing.
